Emergency Medical Services in Arkansas has transformed from a transport vehicle stocked with only a stretcher to an advanced system with the ability to perform highly technical treatments and procedures. During its infancies expanded its scope from band-aids to first aid combined with rapid transport. As an adolescent the profession began to realize that EMS was more than a ride to the hospital. Experience proved to be the best teacher. Experience also showed us that structured education and skills criteria would provide a standardized level of training and this training must be ongoing. As adulthood was obtained EMS continued to grow.

Middle age is a time when most have matured but, hopefully, is still growing. We strive to make the same true as EMS reaches middle age.

The Arkansas Emergency Medical Technician Association knows that EMS has blossomed since onset but also realizes that there is still much room to grow in order to serve citizens to the best of our ability. We base the idea of growth on an educational foundation, as we all know EMS is an ever changing field. In order to stay on top of new treatments and procedures as well as maintain proficiency of skills and Knowledge that is not used on a daily basis, AEMTA strives to offer quality continuing educational events.

EMS 2010, a regional educational conference, will be held August 5-8 in Hot Springs, Arkansas. Educators from across the United States as well as from our Natural State will share their wisdom with the EMS Professionals in the South Central Region.

Your assistance is needed to make this a success. The Arkansas EMT Association is a non-profit organization that maintains a 501(C) (6) tax status. The Internal Revenue Service has advised AEMTA that even with a 501(C) (6) tax status that a tax deductible contribution may be made by companies to this conference by sponsoring individual activities (breaks, banquet, dances, competitions, awards, etc..) and/or speakers for the EMS Conference 2010. In order to assist in the education necessary to perhaps save the life of yourself, your family, or your friends, we request that you become a financial sponsor of EMS 2010. Vendor space is also available, should that better fit your capabilities.
